Omgosh I'm terrible at looking at my emails...

I apologize Kirsten, I did not check my email until today...

Behavioral Interventions

“If we want to inform young people, if we want to promote good choices and we want to engage them in meaningful dialogue, we have a pedagogical responsibility to meet them where they’re at... Right now that’s texting.” Benjamin L. Castleman, 2015

Reaching At-Risk Students

Hi  this is Kirsten Meymaris from Purdue Global. I am your College Algebra teacher. I was reviewing your grades and noticed you were not passing the class as midterm time. I was really glad to see you in seminar and want to help you get caught up! Can you please contact me call or text and we can set up a completion plan for you? You can do this! Professor Kirsten

21 min

Hello Professor, I deleted an email I wanted to send you yesterday about my struggle I have been having with the class. I would like you to know that despite of the hole I have gotten myself into, I am willing to try harder and push for success. I am sorry I didn't reach out when I needed the help, I thought I could find the information to help me online after the weekly seminars and I found some great videos that definitely helped me, but I am having a huge problem remembering the information from week to week, I don't remember if I actually covered some of the subjects before, but most I will say that a lot of the material is new to me and I should have reached out sooner. I am at work at the moment, I usually work monday through Friday 8am to 5pm pacific time. I would love some assistance to help catch up if possible, also I do have the option of leaving work early if i need to as well

Thank you for reaching out to me Brian. I am so sorry that you have been struggling, but I am here to help! Yes! You can still be successful in class! You can call me anytime you are off work tonight or this weekend and we can chat. In the meantime, I have already granted you an extension for the Unit 5 MML Graded Practice while we are currently in Unit 6. Work on the Unit 5 MML Graded Practice and then the Unit 6 assignments - these are due Tuesday, June 26th midnight ET. It will be a good way to get you going on the right track! Do still call me and we can then talk through all the help available to you and really finalize a completion plan for the rest of term! How does that sound? Have a good day and give me a call when you are off work!

Professor Kirsten
